

Roanoke Natural Foods Co-op Introduces Wholesale Department

In January, Roanoke Natural Foods Co-op announced its new wholesale department, established to better serve co-op shoppers and small businesses that place larger orders.

Special orders of $300 or more are now placed through the wholesale department, which can offer significant savings to co-op customers. Special deals are often available from departments throughout the store, including the grocery, wellness and bulk areas.

Wholesale orders are placed online only. Shoppers will need to contact the co-op to receive their own user names and passwords before placing orders. Discounts apply to all shoppers, both members and non-members alike.

For more information, call 540-343-5652, email Wholesale@RoanokeNaturalFoods.coop or visit RoanokeNaturalFoods.coop. See ad on page 6.

Concord Veterinary Services Announces Open House to Honor 20th Anniversary

Lori D. Leonard, DVM, announces an open house to celebrate the 20-year anniversary of her veterinary clinic, Concord Veterinary Services, in Concord. The event will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on February 16, and will feature tours, refreshments and special offers to visitors.

Leonard's clinic, which was established on February 15, 1993, serves a variety of domestic and wild animals and livestock. At her full-service veterinary hospital, Leonard provides conventional and holistic care for her patients throughout their lives, from puppy and kitten visits to wellness for elderly animals. She has a special interest in geriatric care and quality-of-life concerns and draws upon a wide variety of options for assisting animals and their people.

Homeopathy, in which Leonard earned her credential in England, is the cornerstone of her healing practice. Leonard also uses flower essences, animal communications, herbal tinctures and Reiki to support her animal patients. "Homeopathy is especially useful for organic farming operations as well as for those who wish to reduce the use of vaccination and conventional drugs in their animals and livestock," she says.

Leonard's clinic, which is open six days a week, is located in the village of Concord in central Virginia, between Lynchburg and Appomattox. New patients and referrals are welcome. "We gratefully appreciate the support of the local community that we have received over the years," Leonard says.

Cost: Free. Location: 8908 Village Hwy., Concord. For more information, call 434-993-2403 or visit ConcordVetServices.com. See Community Resource Guide, page 31.
